Peanut harvest

New battle starts on cloud seeding

South Randall County farmers have taken up the fight against weather modification again.

Nolon Henderson reported more than 100 persons attended a meeting in Tulia Monday night to rally for a third attempt to block two weather modification firms.

Applications for permits have been filed with the Texas Water Development Board by Atmospherics Incorporated of Fresno, Calif. and Plains Weather Improvement Association of Hale Center.

Two batches of petitions signed primarily by residents in and around Happy have also been received, said George Bomar, a meteorologist for TWDB. One petition bearing about 60 names arrived last week and a second petition came Tuesday he said.

Because the application is being protested, a docket number has been assigned and a hearing date will be set, Bomar said.

The two firms are seeking a four year permit to engage in cloud seeding over Randall, Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Bailey, Lamb, Hale Cochran, Hockley and Lubbock.

Although most of Randall County is out of the target area, the planes may fly over the county. The target area runs right along the very south portion of the county, said Henson, who owns land that will be affected.

The protesting farmers contend that cloud seeding interferes with rainfall, making the area drier.

The seeding of clouds with silver iodide is intended to break up hail storms that heavily damage crops.

Henson contends that not only does the cloud seeding break up rain clouds, but the seeding produces smaller but more damaging hail.

The protest group expects to hire a weather consultant firm from Ft. Collins to appear at the hearing as an expert witness, Henson said.

The group has been unsuccessful in blocking the permits in the past. Two permits have previously been granted for six month intervals for weather modification.

This time the firms are seeking four year permits.

Henson says the farmers ex-

Land owner loses acres through old survey error

A surveyor's error in the late 1800s has left a Randall County land owner holding about 200 acres less than he thought he had.

County surveyor John Dorsey reported the recent discovery that a parcel of land previously thought to be privately owned is really state-owned land. Dorsey did not disclose the occupant's name but said under homestead rules he would be given first chance at the land as a "good faith occupant."

This is the first time in Dorsey's 50 years of surveying that he has ever found a vacant parcel, he said.

The error came about this way, Dorsey recounted: Back in the late 1800s, when the state was doing some surveying in this western buffalo land, they sent two surveyors out to get records on about a ten mile area.

The surveyors split up and one said "you go around this land this way and I'll go that way and we'll meet over yonder."

Well, said Dorsey, when one of the team was about halfway around his section, he came upon a herd of wild horses, with mares and young colts.

The opportunity was too good to pass, so the surveying team piled some buffalo chips up to mark their spot on the survey and went off chasing wild horses.

When they gave that up, Dorsey said, they couldn't find their marker again.

So they finally gave up looking and decided to just start from where they were.

When they came to the spot where they were supposed to meet the other surveying team, there was no one there. They waited and looked and finally saw the other group at a distance.

The note entered in the surveyor's note book reads: 'I can see them way over there and they aren't even in gunshot range,' Dorsey said.

This resulted in a large surveying error. A few years later, the general land office sent out another surveyor named Twichell to correct the mistake, Dorsey said.

He resurveyed the area and some of his marks are still in the ground, said Dorsey. But his survey left a plot still unaccounted for.

There the matter stood until recently when Dorsey set out to sur-

City cashes quickly

A deadline on spending government money sent Canyon officials hurrying to the bank Tuesday morning to cash a federal check.

The $22,000 check came in the mail last week with a three-day time limit on spending the money. The grant, from the Community Development Act, was awarded for street paving costs which have already been completed, so the check cashing was just a formality.

The paving was done this summer in the west part of town on a letter of credit from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The city, which missed out on Community Development Act funds for this year by failing to apply in time, is back to work on an application for next year.

City manager Glen Metcalf said this week that there was no indication of how much money the city might expect if community development funding is approved.

The act is designed to benefit

Eagles to meet Borger in first district game

The Canyon High School football team, which has concluded a fall training record of 4-2, will get down to the hard brass at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow when the Eagles begin district play at Borger.

"This will be the start of our district play and of course the next four ball games will tell whether we will represent our district in the playoffs and we are very interested in doing that," said Eagle coach Deane Wright.

"I haven't given a lot of consideration to the other teams in our district, right now I am just interested in playing Borger," continued Wright.

In reference to the Bulldogs Wright says: "Borger is the kind of team that you can't let get started on you. If you can hang in their for a half and stay with them I think you have a chance to beat them. When they get ahead they get tough. It seems that the people they have played who have gotten ahead early have a chance to go ahead and beat them.

"Their strength all year long has been defense. Definitely their quarterback and fullback are the strength of their offense. They have a quarterback named Robby McCourty who is just 5'9", 160 pounds but he is very quick with his feet, very agile, very good thrower, just an excellent quarterback. And then their fullback is a big kid named Curt Smith, he's 6-2, 215 pounds and he runs with lots of authority.

"If Borger plays as poorly as Palo Duro and we play as well as we played against Palo Duro then we will win.

"If Borger really gets up high for this game and we play lower than par we could easily get beat. I do think that we have the best team," said Wright.

Last week the Eagles certainly showed signs of being a definite contender for district in totaling up 388 total yards and 38 points while shutting the powerful Dons out.

Jonathan Hull had his most productive night as an Eagle, picking up 142 yards on 24 carries, 12 more yards than he had gained the entire season.

For the first time in weeks, the entire Eagle team will be in uniform.

"Ricky Cooper's leg bothers him all the time and he'll have his problems but as long as he doesn't get a severe lick on it he should be alright," said Wright. "John Prater will be back and that will help us defensively and offensively both. Cliff Adams will be back and that will also help us."

Cooper will once more be at the helm for Canyon. To date he has thrown for 499 yards with 28 out of 68 completions.

Ricky will be joined in the backfield by Gary Ward who gained 30 yards in just 3 carries last week. Ward has rushed for 395 yards on 68 carries so far this

Flu shots halted

Public health workers who have been concentrating on getting the new swine flu vaccine out to Panhandle physicians went into reverse late Tuesday afternoon when a temporary halt was called on distribution.

State public officials in Austin stopped the distribution of vaccine as a precaution until more could be learned about three deaths Monday in Pennsylvania that may have been related to the vaccine.

"This is just a precautionary halt," emphasized David Brown, of the Region I Texas Department of Health Resources worker. "It is not something to worry about if you've taken the swine flu shot."

Brown said the deaths were not likely to be related to the vaccine, but until more could be learned, distribution has been halted.

The Region I workers were busy Tuesday afternoon trying to notify every physician in the Panhandle to whom they had given the 49,400 doses of vaccine.

Earlier that day, Brown had said that the possibilities of having enough vaccine to hold public mass innoculation clinics were slight.

Because there has not been enough vaccine, they have distributed the swine flu shots to doctors in private practice. Some of these physicians give the shots free while others charge for administering the vaccine. The vaccine itself is funded by federal taxes and is free to users.

Builders say all quiet on homefront

While Amarillo home builders squabble with city code enforcement officers, Canyon builders and inspectors co-exist peacefully.

"Everything is smooth down here," commented Harold Root, a Canyon home builder.

"We've got no complaints or bad feelings about the building codes here because we've been going by them for years, Al Sternenberg, another builder, said.

Canyon's electrical, plumbing and construction codes are enforced by Jerry Lehnick and part-time inspector Bob Adams.

With the city's building boom well into its second year, inspections keep Lehnick hopping.

A typical day includes about 16 inspections that average 20 minutes each, not counting time waiting for homes not quite ready, re-inspections, issuing building permits and other related activities.

Lehnick said that the backlog of inspections would probably continue.

"One idea that builders are going to have to get used to a change in, is time," Lehnick said. "It may be three or four hours for me to get out there when it used to be they'd call and we'd be out

Absentee polls open

Absentee voting for the presidential election Nov. 2 began yesterday and will continue until Oct. 29, LeRoy Hutton, county clerk, said.

Voters who are 65 and older or who expect to be out of town on election day may vote now from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at either the clerks office in the Randall County Courthouse in Canyon or the Annex in south Amarillo at Georgia St. and the Canyon Expressway.

The deadline for Hutton to mail out absentee application forms is Oct. 29 and the completed ballot must be in his office by the time the polls close on Nov.2.

GOP to open headquarters

County Republicans will open a GOP headquarters Saturday with a get-acquainted session with candidates Alan Steelman, campaigning for U. S. senator; Bob Price, running for the U. S. Congress, Bob Holt, running for State representative and Mrs. Audrey Bruse, county tax assessor-collector seeking re-election.

The GOP office next to West Texas State Bank on Fourth Avenue will also be neighborhood headquarters for the Ford-Dole ticket for president.

Refreshments will be served Saturday at the opening at 10:30.

Solar radios keep tabs on quail

A CB-carrying quail? Not exactly, but three scaled quail on the east rim of the Palo Duro Canyon were sporting some six inch antennae that looked mighty suspicious.

The equipment was part of the research project of Jim Rogers, a West Texas State University graduate student who was using the solar-powered transmittors to follow the daily activities of two coveys of scaled quail on the Harrel Ranch.

Possibly the first application of solar-powered biotelemetry in the United States, the transmittors allowed Rogers to find the birds without disturbing their normal routines. The transmittor and the harness Jim Rogers developed were heavier than what is considered best for the 190 gram bird, but the quail apparently were not bothered.

Charting the daily patterns of the scaled quail "is important to their management," Rogers said. Understanding how they have so successfully adapted to this region might also give information to aid other species which are dying out.

Rogers' study of the scaled quail ran from last January through April, when the quail ranged over a small half-mile area. He had hoped to obtain information about their response to harsh weather, but last winter's mildness stymied that portion of his research.

He did compile a time budget for the diurnal bird which contained a few surprises, including what the bird did with the growing number of daylight hours.

Rogers found that the quail's day begins with sunrise and ends at dusk when it returns to its roost in a barren field.

"This is really not so strange when you consider that its predators are airborne, and the quail would not be so visible at night," Rogers pointed out.

The quail do immediately seek overhead cover during the day, however, when they are traveling, feeding or loafing.

The composite picture of the scaled quail's activities reveals that the quail spend 52 percent of

Homework assigned on sewage restriction

County commissioners were sent home Monday to review a 62-page report on private sewer disposal before the next meeting as county administrative assistant Carroll Wilson gave a strong push toward regulation.

Wilson, who is resigning and will be back next week to sit in on the meeting as a newsman, pressed for action to prohibit bore holes, cess pools, pit privies and injection wells.

"You have direct statutory authority to regulate these things," Wilson said. "You don't have to come in by the back door."

Pollution of the water table by inadequate means of sewage disposal is already costing the taxpayers money, he said.

Citing Umbarger, where a community water system is being constructed now with federal funding, Wilson said, "That's $158,000 it's costing taxpayers to clean it up."

Other areas of the county will likely be polluted also, Wilson said.

Cyclethon efforts raise money for heart campaign

"Cyclethon" riders will be collecting funds for the Randall County Unit of the American Heart Association following their competitive rides on Saturday, Oct. 16.

The riders will convene at the parking lot of First National Bank at 9 a.m. and will follow a designated course with check-in time being 3 p.m.

Funds collected from the cyclethon support educational and community programs as well as further research on heart disease. All participating Cyclethon riders must have their completed application blanks ready for the registration clerk Saturday morning and must sign-up with the clerk on duty.

Categories for this year's Cyclethon effort have been expanded to include a special section for pre-school riders who will have a course laid out on the FNB parking lot.

Other categories in the Cyclethon will include elementary for students grades 1-6, junior high for grades 7-9, high school and college division for fulltime students, and an adult category.

All cyclethon riders must collect and turn in their contributions by 5 p.m. Oct. 25. Proceeds should be turned in to Pat Olsen at First National Bank of Canyon or Reggie Reeves, unit president, at his office on Fourth Avenue.

A variety of prizes await the Cyclethon riders in each division and awards will be announced following the tabulation of the overall effort.

Among city folks getting ready for Saturday's Cyclethon fund raider for the Randall Unit of the American Heart Association were Kenda Reeves, a second grade student, and her younger brother, Korbin, age 3, on his three-wheeler. The two youngsters are children of Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Reeves, local chairman of the Heart Unit.

Halloween Carnival needing more booths

Seven booth spaces have been filled for the annual Halloween Carnival being sponsored by Canyon Study Club.

Rental fee for booths is $7.50 and any local civic organization may participate by making arrangements through the chairmen, Andrea Metcalf, 655-3316, or Ella Brown, 655-4075.

Each organization sponsoring a booth is requested to select their own candidate for Halloween Queen from among Canyon Junior High School girls. The queen's contest will be managed by the sponsoring Canyon Study Club with the winner to be determined through a penny-a-vote ballot. Coronation of the Halloween Queen will highlight the carnival festivities Oct. 29.

"Presently we are needing some more activity and game booths," says Mrs. Metcalf.

Planned thus far for the Halloween Carnival are a fishing booth to be sponsored by the Les Amies Junionettes; a nickle toss being sponsored by the United Methodist Youth Fellowship; a popcorn ball concession sponsored by University Study Club; a pie and coffee concession sponsored by Canyon Senior Citizens; a cake walk being sponsored by Beta Sigma Phi sorority chapters; a frito pie and soft drink booth sponsored by the Home Demonstration Council; and the Halloween Queen's booth being sponsored by Canyon Study Club.

The Halloween Carnival will be held Oct. 29 at Canyon Junior Livestock Building.

Doug Kohout is promoted

Doug W. Kohout of Canyon has recently been appointed an associate sales manager for Life and Casualty Insurance Company of Tennessee.

He began work in this district as an agent in June, 1975.

Kohout will be working under district sales manager C. W. Searcy.

USC's 'tour' big success

University Study Club's 17th annual "Harvest Home Tour" was held Sunday afternoon with local and area residents participating as more than $1,000 was raised on the annual effort.

Annette Lippold, '76 home tour general chairman, reported $675.00 taken in on the home tour tickets.

The club's second annual Country Kitchen added $497.70 to the overall project. Gifts and homebaked items were prepared by USC members for the sales effort.

"It was beautiful fall weather and we had home tour visitors from all over the area," reports Mrs. Lippold.

Old rivals

Buffs to host North Texas State

West Texas State's Buffaloes will try to get back on the winning side of the ledger Saturday night when they host the North Texas State Mean Green.

Game time for the 16th game of the old rivalry is 7:30 p.m. It will be WTSU's first home game in almost a month, but four of the Buffs' next five games will be at Kimbrough Stadium. Dating back to last year, the Buffs have won four straight home games.

The Buffs hope to rebound from their worst loss in three years against the Eagles, a 50-7 setback at Houston last week. The Southwest Conference-leading Cougars could manage only a 10-7 halftime lead before blowing the game open in the third period.

"North Texas presents many of the same problems for us as did Houston," WTSU Coach Gene Mayfield says. "They have been able to contain just about everybody's attack. They held Oklahoma State to 16 points and Texas to 17, and when your defense does that, you're ready to win."

NTSU goes into the game with a 2-4 record. The wins have been over U. T. Arlington and Cal Poly-Pomona, while the losses — all of them narrow — have been to Mississippi State, Texas, SMU, and Oklahoma State. WTSU is 1-3 with the lone win the 14-12 MVC decision over Wichita State at Kimbrough last month.

Both teams will bring balanced attacks into the game. With quarterback Kenny Washington running and throwing, the Mean Green is averaging almost 150 yards rushing and 126 yards passing every time out.

West Texas relies more on the ground attack out of the Wishbone. Fullback Bo Robinson is averaging almost 87 yards per game up the middle as the Buffs are gaining 233 on the ground and 81 through the air per outing.

Robinson, by the way, had more success against the Cougars than did Texas A&M's George Woodard, another wishbone fullback. Woodard could gain only 15 yards on nine carries against UH, but Robinson had 62 yards on 12 totes.

Last year, North Texas scored 13 fourth period points to take a 16-15 win in Denton. WT had shot out to a 15-0 first quarter lead but could not hold on.

Next week, the Buffs return to MVC play with an afternoon game at Des Moines against the Drake Bulldogs, while North Texas State meets another Valley member with a night game against New Mexico State in Las Cruces.

Volunteer library help sought to expand service

Canyon City Library board has approved a volunteer program to benefit services of the library and expect to begin the use of volunteer workers on Nov. 1.

Volunteers are being sought to help the city librarian, Mary Huntington. Past experience in library work would be helpful to the program but is not necessary. Any resident interested in volunteer service to the library should contact the librarian at 655-9271 or check with any library board member.

Volunteers will be used in checking out books to patrons, for check-in of books, to help shelve books, answer the library phone, help library patrons to locate materials and books, to aid with the story hour for little readers and to perform other library duties as experience and abilities permit.

Library hours presently needing a volunteer staff include 10 a.m. through 12 noon on Wednesday and Saturday; 2:30 until 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Friday; and between 3-4 p.m. on Thursdays.

The Canyon City Library board met Oct. 11 to finalize plans for the volunteer program at the library. Board members present included the chairman, Walter Shelly, Terry White, Kathy Glasener, librarian, Mary Huntington, city manager, Glen Metcalf and administrative assistant, Kevin Evans.

At the suggestion of board member, Terry White, the library board agreed to solicit the help of several Canyon Junior High School students in preparing a book display of interest to the junior high level which would comprise a special display during the Christmas season. A similar display was encouraged for the Easter season.

It was reported that $250 in available funds from the Intra-Library services would be used for the acquisition of memorial book plates and for markers advertising local library services.

The second Family Films program, sponsored by the library board last Sunday, was well attended and the Family Films program for next month has been set for Nov. 14 at 2:30 p.m. Film titles will be announced previous to the showing.

The library board will next month be considering prices and other specifications for a display case, which if purchased, would be useful to local organizations for having art work and other items displayed for the public on a rotating basis.

Gina Lucero proudly shows off her work to her mother, Mrs. Aileen Reeves.

Booths added to arts event

The second annual "Arts Americana" project sponsored by Heritage Woman's Club this week added booths for oil paintings and dream dolls to their overall project.

Already signed up for booth spaces were Raggedy Ann and Andy dolls, turquoise jewelry, a bake sale, a Harvest tablecloth drawing, a crafts table, silver jewelry, crochet items, watercolor paintings, tole painting, pen-ink drawings and quilts.

Other local artists and craftsmen desiring to arrange for booth space may contact either Marion Marrs, 655-3748, or Joanna Flack, 655-3438.

Arts Americana will be staged in the Activities Center of West Texas State University. Booths will be opened to the public from 9:30 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Nov. 13 and from 1-5 p.m. on Nov. 14.

Crime, arrests rise

Canyon had more traffic accidents, crimes reported and arrests for crime in September than were recorded a year ago.

Monthly police statistics show an overall increase of 44 per cent in criminal offenses recorded. But while percentages climbed abruptly, the total number of crimes and arrests still remain small.

Arrests for crimes rose 26 per cent over last year and the number of traffic accidents was up very slightly at one per cent.

There were 36 offenses reported in September. This compares to 32 reported in August and 34 reported last September of 1975.

So far this year, there have been 464 crimes reported to city police compared with 341 at this time last year.

Burglaries increased slightly in September while larceny thefts decreased somewhat. There were seven burglaries reported in September, compared to four in August. In September of 1975, 18 burglaries were reported. The 66 burglaries so far this year are an increase over the 59 reported at this time last year.

Thefts were down last month with 12 reported in September and 16 in August. Overall, thefts this year are up, with 99 reported so far compared to 76 last year.

Arrests also climbed, with 26 per cent increase over last year.

In September, there were 22 arrests, including three charged with rape. In August, there were 26 arrests.

Arrests are up for the year, with a total of 269 this year compared to 244 last year.

There were 44 traffic accidents here in September, which, compared to the 27 in August, reflected the seasonal increase of a new school year. Of the accidents, five included injuries.

So far this year, there have been 214 traffic accidents, compared to 212 at this time last year.

Math courses set for evening

West Texas State University plans to offer evening mathematics courses for business and economics I and II beginning this spring semester.

Math 115 and 116 are both required by the School of Business bachelor degree program. "They have not been offered for three or four semesters during the evening, and the students (evening students) are taking them at Amarillo College," said Mike Tarrab, associate professor of mathematics at WTSU.

Next semester, the Math Department will offer Math 115 Wednesday evenings at 7 o'clock. "The continuation of Math 115, that is Math 116, will be offered on Wednesday nights during the spring of 1977," added Tarrab, "so that students will be able to take both courses, one each semester.

"A requirement of the Industrial Education Department, Math 111 (trigonometry), has not been offered during the evening for some semesters," Tarrab said. During the spring 1977 semester, however, Math 111 will be offered on Thursday nights at 7.

Tarrab will be the instructor for the evening classes. He emphasizes that the classes "are subject to confirmation and approval by the administration, but the sooner people know they are going to be offered during the evening, the better."

'Leg' contest

Gamma Sigma Sigma, national service sorority, will conduct a Leg Contest during the week of Homecoming. Male and female winners will be selected.

Winners of the contest will receive dinner for two at the Railroad Crossing and two hockey tickets to an Amarillo Wrangler game.

The winner in the male division will receive gift certificates from Cates Men's and Boys Wear, West Texas Western Store, The Sweet Shop, and Fargo's Famine.

The female with the winning legs will be presented gift certificates from Jean's Juniors, The Carriage House, The Sweet Shop, H. R. Flowers, Fargo's Famine, and Bethel Jewelers.

Pictures of the entrants legs will be placed at the ballot with a money jar. Winners will be determined by the person with the most money in their jar.

Festive food ideas given to consumers

Have you sampled a "spinach dip," a "sour cream apple pie," a "pineapple cream salad," "golden nut bread" or "glorified peas" lately?

If not, you missed this week's Festive Foods programs which were presented free for any interested resident.

The recipes are excellent and the demonstrator, Diane Bim, home economist with Southwestern Public Service Company, is knowledgeable in the proper use of so many electric appliances.

As lecturer, Diane, gives indepth knowledge for the consuming public on the positive aspects of conserving the homemaker's time and energy through proper use of the electric range, portable electric appliances and the microwave oven.

While she describes the proper functioning of the microwave oven thoroughly, Diane is mixing up a blender filled with various ingredients for a new salad recipe. The recipe, included in the Festive Foods booklet, is one of several to be demonstrated during one of the three consumer programs which were being presented at the Farm Bureau Building Monday and Tuesday.

The 1976 edition of the Festive Foods booklet was presented to each person attending the programs this week and each participant also had the opportunity to taste the foods prepared.

Sponsored by the Randall County Home Demonstration Council, the Festive Foods programs have become an annual event for local homemakers and male youths of the Bachelor Survival class at Canyon High School.

Funeral held for Luther Arnold, 66

Funeral services for Luther Arnold, 66, were conducted Monday morning at Schooler-Gordon Funeral Chapel in Canyon.

Mr. Arnold died Saturday afternoon at Palo Duro Hospital in Canyon. He was born Nov. 22, 1909 in Taylor County and was married to the former Edna J. Rudd Nov. 11, 1945 at Stratford.

During World War II, Mr. Arnold served with the second armored division. He was a civil service employee with the Bushland Experimental Station for 36 years before retirement. The Arnolds lived at the Experimental Station for 18 years before moving to Canyon in 1963 where they resided at 522 11th Avenue.

Mr. Arnold was a member of the First Baptist Church of Canyon and the Daniel Sunday School Class. The family requests that any memorial gifts go to the American Cancer Society or a favorite charity.

Burial was conducted at Stratford Memorial Cemetery in Stratford Monday afternoon.

Convention time nears

BY REBA RAEF

AT THE OCTOBER meeting of St. Mary's Altar Society and Christian Mothers, held Oct. 5th, members were reminded of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women Convention, to be held in Plainview on Oct. 19 and 20.

Mrs. Ray Gerber, program chairman, led the group in playing the old school game of "May I?", using questions from the Bible and the Baltimore Catechism for the game. Refreshments were served by Mesdames Ray Gerber and Ed Grabber.

While there, they visited with the rest of Evelyn's relatives and with Vince's relatives. Vincent's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Meyer, took Vince and Evelyn to Storm Lake, Iowa, to visit cousins there.

The Meyer's went on to Des Moines, and visited another cousin, Myron Meyer.

In Cameron, Missouri, they visited Evelyn's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Shalk. As they returned home, they went back by Paola to visit Mrs. Brooker and found her in the hospital. They visited Vince's brother, Harry in Olathe, Kansas, who also is very ill. Evelyn said they were glad to get back home.

No word yet on post office

There has been no word yet on the final approval of a new post office for Canyon but postal authorities here are expecting it any day.

A check at Amarillo District postmaster C. T. Davis's office Wednesday added nothing new but employees there said an announcement was expected soon.

The site selection and proposed construction of a new post office was opposed by a Canyon group who felt that locating the new facility between Fourth and Fifth Avenues would destroy a shaded, historical district of the city.

there in five minutes."

There are at least a dozen inspections for every house. The first one begins with the footing, checking to see if the location is suitable, the material up to standard and the foundation ditches deep enough.

The second inspection checks the plumbing and the third the slab. Next comes the electrical tap inspection, the framing, the roughed in wiring and the top out plumbing.

After that, the fireplace, if there is one, is inspected, then the gas line and then come the final electrical, plumbing and construction inspections.

Canyon's building codes follow standard national codes, Lehnick said. They are adapted and up-dated to fit Canyon, he said.

The building codes are constantly changing, growing more and more complex, he said. Updating attempts to keep up with changes in the building industry, Lehnick said.

pect little or no help from the state legislature.

"It's gotten to be such a political issue," he said. Many of the key legislators favor cloud seeding, Henson said.

He has tried to involve the Environmental Protection Agency in the dispute but has had no response. Henson says that heavy seeding with silver iodide can permeate grass and be present in cattle feeding off polluted grass.

There are still several steps ahead for the two firms before a hearing is set, Bomar said.

While permit applications have been filed and the fees paid, neither company has submitted proof of publication of a notice to residents in a newspaper published within the county and having general circulation, Bomar said. In addition, Atmospherics still needs to furnish proof of liability insurance.

As far as weather modification itself goes, Bomar said no one knows if it is effective.

"We are in the process of conducting a study around Big Spring," he said.

The experiments with cloud seeding with silver iodide and other elements have been going on for two years and have four more years to go.

Bomar said, "We hope this will help us put our finger on something and find out just what effect, if any, it has on weather."

County at a glance:

County commissioners Monday did this:

—Tabled application to close a road right-of-way in south Amarillo.

—Signed the ambulance contract with Metropolitan.

—Discussed meeting with judges to discuss returning payments to the county by the adult probation department.

—Tabled a resolution supporting the Bicentennial Land Heritage Act.

—Took home for study a 62-page report on bore holes.

—Considered a new purchasing policy to require order numbers for all county purchases.

—Approved travel pay for home economist Becky Hall to national convention in Portland, Ore. Because of budget limitations, only half of plane fare and five days at the meeting were approved.

—Approved use of county gas by extension workers.

—Employed a vacation secretary to replace Ruth Lassiter.

—Heard report on revenue sharing.

—Put off further consideration of a contract with Amarillo for tax information.

—Heard report from county surveyor John Dorsey on state-owned land.

News brief

Cattlemen won't see higher beef prices in 1977 unless a lot of cows, non-fed cattle and calves are slaughtered this year, says a livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension service. Cattle numbers are still high, with 53.8 million cows, 11.2 million replacement heifers and 96.7 million feeder cattle on hand. The main goal of cattlemen should be to cut feeder cattle availability by putting more cows, calves and non-fed cattle on the market. Feedgrain prices and winter pasture conditions will also affect cattle prices this fall and into 1977.

The charge that building inspections add to the cost of the home is true in one sense, he said.

Without inspections, a builder could throw together any type of house, cutting expenses to the bone, he said.

But most builders would comply with an accpetable quality without any codes. Established builders must keep their reputation, Lehnick said, but out-of-towners could build and run.

Some cities make their building code office pay for itself in fees, but Lehnick said he doubted that Canyon could do that. Fees in Canyon now are rather low, he said, and in addition, his office also does courtesy inspections for establishments like day nurseries.

Fees average about $10-$15 each for electrical, plumbing and construction inspections. Building permits cost a half-cent for each square foot.

Nationally recommended fees, which are followed in Muleshoe, Lehnick said, cost about $127 a house.

One provision in the city codes that has not been enforced, he said, is the $3.50 reinspection fee. With the increase in work loads, the reinspection fee may someday be enforced, Lehnick said.

One reason builders here might be satisfied with the codes is because contractors help write them. Lehnick said a committee to write the codes is made up of contractors, a city inspector and members of the general public.

vey the adjoining property.

"Nothing fit," he said, "So I spent a day in Austin in the general land office putting it together."

By state law, the approximately 200 acres is owned by the school district. Dorsey said the next step is to survey the area, have it appraised by school tax collectors and allow the present occupant the first chance to buy the property.

"This piece of land is a real rare thing," he said. "I've been surveying 50 years and it's the first vacant land I've ever seen."

Dorsey told the commissioners that until the discovery of this plot, there was thought to be no more state-owned land for homesteading left in the county.

urban renewal and projects for economically depressed areas. This eliminates much of Canyon, which is largely made up of middle income residents. Last year, a project paving three blocks of streets in west Canyon only brought $22,000 to the city. City funds supplemented the grant to complete the paving.

Several city officials share the opinion that the time and trouble involved in applying is not justified by the small grants received.

Next year, the city will probably ask for a large sum, allocated among a number of projects that are grouped by priorities. This way, Metcalf explained, if only part of the application is approved, a project can be salvaged.

Public hearings to decide what projects to ask for will begin soon, Metcalf said. The deadline for pre-application is Feb. 15. This year the city was eliminated from any funding because city officials didn't get Canyon's application submitted in time.

County. . .

Regulation of sewage disposal would require licensing and inspection of home septic tank construction.

K.D. Horton, who has pushed for county regulation of sewage disposal, also urged commissioners to act. The bore hole study will be on the agenda for next meeting.

Tightened purse strings were felt as commissioners bumped up against budget limitations.

When Mrs. Becky Hall, Randall County home extension agent, asked for funds to attend the national association meeting in Portland, Ore., commissioners discovered that her trip would take almost the entire amount budgeted for the year for dues and meetings.

And just last week, they had already approved expenses for Paul Sammons, assistant agriculture agent, to go to the state fair with 4-H'ers.

Only $600 was included in the budget for meetings and dues and Mrs. Hall's trip was estimated to cost $418. Commissioners finally agreed to pay for half of her plane fare and for five days at $40 a day.

They asked extension agents to figure a more realistic allocation for next year's budget.

County auditor Bill Tirey sought more control over county expenditures when he asked commissioners to consider a new purchasing policy that would require an order number from him for all county purchases.

This would allow him to check on expenditures on a day to day basis, he said, rather than just finding out how much is being spent by each department when the bills come in at the end of the month.

A provision for emergency purchases would be arranged for the sheriff's office, roads and bridge department and courthouse maintenance.

The commissioners also approved a request from the county extension office to allow agents to use county gas.

They also decided to look around for bids when they learned that liability insurance premiums for sheriff's vehicles has jumped 350% from $812 last year to $3,619 this year.

The liability includes $500,000 for each individual and $1,000,000 in annual settlements.

The county is asking for an alternative rate bid for lesser coverage also.

Support for President Ford's proposed Bicentennial Land Heritage Act was tabled to death. Commissioners last week had called the $1.8 million a waste of money included for Buffalo Lake if the act passes. Monday they tabled the resolution indefinitely.

Commissioners also tabled a request to abandon a 30 foot strip of right-of-way in south Amarillo.

its time roosting, 27 percent loafing, 14 percent traveling and seven percent feeding, primarily on snake weed. The bird does manage to feed a little while it is traveling.

The quail had two extra hours of daylight by the end of Rogers' study, and what they did with it was a surprise.

"Everyone expected a large increase in feeding time, but there was not," Rogers said. "The quail spent it loafing."

And Rogers discovered that scaled quail, like humans, are creatures of habit which follow a regular time table. They roosted in the same spot in the barren field each night, fed in the same areas and had their favorite three or four loafing spots, each for different types of weather.

"It's got to where I didn't need the transmitting equipment," Rogers said. "I knew where they would be."

Rogers, who will earn his master's degree in biology in May, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Fuller of Sunrise Beach, Mo., formerly of Ellenwood, Ks. He currently resides at 708 17th St., Canyon.

Also in the backfield will be Joe Luquette, who gained 51 yards on 8 carries last week. Luquette has now gained 202 yards on 34 carries this year. Hull will round out the backfield.

The passing game will be aided by the return of Prater who has not seen action since the birds beat Caprock 14-8. In two games this year Prater has caught 4 passes for 64 yards.

The offense as a whole is now averaging 18 points and 281.5 yards per game.

Defensively the Eagles are letting up 10.3 points and 195.5 yards per contest.

Hometown artists picked for show

By FARRIS ANN MORRISON

HAVE YOU BEEN to the Best of the Southwest show at Western Plaza?

Troyce Mulherin had two paintings accepted as did her twin sister Joyce Thompson. Although winning is exciting, just having a piece accepted by the committee is an honor. The show is sponsored by the Amarillo Fine Arts Association and attracts artists from all over the area.

The two paintings shown by Troyce are "Summers Past" and "Pride Abandoned". The first won an honorable mention, and was done in soft springtime colors of two little girls, their dolls, and some flowers. . . very lovely and nostalgic. "Pride Abandoned" is just that: an old house retaining only traces of former glory and gradually being defeated by time and the elements. Done in warm sienna tones, the textures of wood and brush contrast with the light coming through the broken panes.

Joyce chose mustang ponies as the subject for her painting "Freedom." The seven horses are seemingly on their guard as if someone might take away their independence. She also has a work done in earth tones of an old fieldstone house and windmill titled "Limpia." This is the third year they have entered. The competition is stiff, and the two artists are to be congratulated for their excellent works.

BRENDA LAWLESS AND Elaine Foley took the Kindergarten to the Central Fire Station. The most fun according to Brian Winters was watching the men slide down the pole.

Joan Albers in musical

Joan Albers, a sophomore at Concordia Lutheran College in Austin, is playing the role of Sister Berthe in Concordia's production of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "The Sound of Music." Joan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Albers, Route 2, Canyon.

Set in Austria in the year 1938, the musical tells the real life story of Maria Augusta von Trapp, who failed to have the discipline to become a nun but was able to work wonders with her christian faith as the wife of Captain von Trapp and the stepmother of his seven children.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 7, was the Amarillo Aquatic Club's awards banquet. Sheila Hicks received the gold President's award, and John got a West Texas tree for helping set a West Texas record as a relay team member in Houston. He and five others received T-shirts as an award too complicated to explain (Phyllis' word).

Last Saturday and Sunday was a B-C class meet at the Maverick Club. Sheila won fourth in the 100 freestyle and 100 back stroke. She won fifth in the 200 free and sixth in the 200 individual medley.

John upped his class to A in the 50 meter back stroke, then came in second in the 50 fly, 50 free, and 100 free. He placed third in the 50 breast stroke and fourth in the 200 individual medley. Amarillo Aquatic Club placed first in over-all points.

THE FOURTH GRADE football team won over Belmer 12-7. I heard it was a very close game. Congratulations!

In a couple of weeks will be the Toy Bowl. Not only will we get to see a Gene Howe team play, admission to the game will go for a really good cause: each person brings a toy which is passed on for children who might not have Christmas. Come out and see a game; bring a toy.

PRIOR TO VISITING, Gene Howe's second Open House was called to order in the auditorium. Den 7 had Trent Rosenbaum, John Cunningham, and Rob Bulla present the colors. The rooms were decorated so beautifully. Most rooms either featured trees in Fall colors, or Halloween ghosts and goblins.

Portia Tillinghast has been teaching a unit on "Be nice to spiders"...hmmm. All the boys and girls made spiders, big fat black ones. Really effective.

Alicia Neimeier had Columbus' ships sailing all around the top of the blackboard.

Anita Harp had each of her kids do a self-portrait for her Monster Gallery. Nancy Roth also had self-portraits.

Pam Layman had her students do some beautiful free form work with shapes.

Elaine Trew had lovely Fall trees and Snoopy's gang saying "Lucky Us! We live in America."

Gerry Woodward had silhouettes of each student, plus their conception of cars of the future.

Jerrie Langen not only had self-portraits, but the parents had to guess which child was theirs. Cherry Winters said that a lot of the grown-ups cheated and looked at the names.

Sheila Davis had Halloween mobiles all over the room, and there were Columbus parades up and down the second hall.

All in all, a very successful Open House. Mr. Lawless was in top form, and we were fortunate to have our new superintendent, Dr. Thompson, as our guest.

SOME PTA DATES to remember: our first variety show will be Nov. 22 at 7 p.m. This is a major fund raising event, so please come.

By the way, did you know that we have 520 students at Gene Howe and 505 PTA members. We are so proud of each one; thank you for supporting your child and your school.

Harringtons have baby boy

Mr. and Mrs. Don Harrington of 2707 6th Avenue, Apt. 12, in Canyon announce the Oct. 5 birth of a son, Christopher Leva.

Born at High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo, the baby boy weighed 10 pounds and measured 21½ inches at birth.

The father is employed with First National Bank of Amarillo.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Steve Sisk of Canyon and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Harrington of Elmira, New York. Mrs. L. L. Card of Lone Wolf, Oklahoma and the late Leva Card are great grandparents of the infant. Robert Sisk is the child's great grandfather.

Housing survey planned here

A sample of households in this area will take part in the fourth nationwide survey of housing conducted annually by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce, for the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The 1976 survey began Sept. 20. This program is in response to a need for frequent and up-to-date data on U.S. housing, considered a prime indicator of the nation's economic well-being.

For the 1976 survey a sample of 80,000 housing units has been scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all housing in the nation. The sample was originally selected from 1970 census records and has been updated each year to include new construction.

Previously, housing data have come only from the decennial census of housing, irregular surveys, and one-time special studies. With regular annual surveys it is possible to compare from year to year the number and types of housing, and changes in the total housing stock resulting from losses and new construction. In addition, comparisons can be made about the frequency of mechanical and utility breakdowns and other indicators of the physical condition of residential structures, characteristics of the neighborhoods in which the units are located, as well as the characteristics of the occupants, including those who move in and out over the years.

Census Bureau representatives will begin interviewing households immediately, and the work is expected to take about three months. For unoccupied units, information will be obtained from neighbors, landlords or rental agents.

Joint HUD-Census reports on the results of the survey are expected to be issued in the fall of 1977. Statistics will be tabulated for the U.S., for each of four census regions, for urban and rural areas, for standard metropolitan statistical areas as a whole, (both inside and outside central cities), and for the remainder of the country (nonmetropolitan).

Dinner theatre to play at AC

Alpha Omega Players will present a review Friday at WTSU.

"Hackberry Cavalier" dinner theatre program will be presented by the Student Activities Council (SAC) Oct. 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the West Texas State University cafeteria.

Alpha Omega Players, a traveling theatre group, will star in "Cavalier." Admission cost is $5 per person for WTSU students and faculty and $6 for non-WTSU attendants; price of tickets includes the meal, according to Jim Holston, director of student programming.

"The players do theatre across the United States and are very well received in their college circuit," said Holston. "If we get a good response, we plan to sponsor it (dinner theatre) again."

"Hackberry Cavalier" is a new comedy adapted from stories by George Sessions Perry that appeared in the "Saturday Evening Post."

One of these "series" of stories was set in the Texas hill country, around the mythical town of Hackberry. The stories often began with a young man named Edgar Selfridge (nephew of the owner of the Hackberry Bank) encountering a lovely, usually bare-foot girl. More often than not, the girl was in love with someone else, and of course there was some horrible obstacle standing in the way of their happiness. The obstacle was usually connected with either the outlandish actions of her father or grandfather, or the foolishness of her young man. Either way, Edgar Selfridge, the Hackberry Cavalier, would find a way to unite the young lovers and at the same time become the respected friend of the father or grandfather.

depict the Mexican fiesta, will be used for decoration and the flowers, which have been made by the committee, will later be taken to nursing homes.

Entertainment for the luncheon will be a style show with models from several Canyon stores walking among the tables showing the newest in fall and winter fashions.

The University's "New Day Singers" will also entertain.

Co-chairmen planning the event are Thelma Ruth Childs and Betty Winter. Also on the committee are Patricia Bacon, Nadine Baird, Pat Barnett, Dorcus Byrd, Norma Carruth, Lin Elbert, Faye Hendrickson, Greta Laakso, Claudine Lehman, Suzanne Miller, Donna Umberson, Guida Webb and Barbara Wilson.

If you haven't already seen the Variety Show at the Canyon High auditorium, you get one more chance tonight. The choir show begins at 8 p.m. The Sunday News incorrectly reported that the show was playing Monday through Wednesday only. There was no show scheduled, however, for Wednesday and we were wrong. We apologize. Entertaining in the show are (from left) Christie Corley, Dinah Winn and Darlenea Hanes.

Article published

West Texas State University Associate History Professor Peter L. Petersen has published an article, "The Reluctant Candidate: Edwin T. Meredith and the 1924 Democratic National Convention."

The article appears in the September October issue of "The Palimpsest," which is produced by the Iowa State Historical Department.

Petersen examines the political manueverings which deadlocked the 1924 Democratic Convention for 13 days in over 100 ballotings for prime candidates William Gibbs McAdoo and New York Governor Al Smith.

Iowan progressive Meredith, a prominent agricultural publisher who served on Woodrow Wilson's cabinet, was suggested as a compromise candidate, but the man first refused because of his McAdoo affiliations.

By the time that John W. Davis was selected to run, Meredith, now a willing candidate, had lost his political impetus for the vice presidential slot.

Many of his supporters thought Meredith lucky not to be on a ticket so obviously doomed to defeat at the polls, and were encouraged about his political prospects. But Meredith was not to be tested again; he died only a few days before the 1928 Democratic Convention.

In conclusion in his article, Petersen states: "But on one essential point there can be little disagreement. As long as Meredith remained a reluctant candidate, one unwilling actively to seek support, his chances of securing the presidential nomination were almost nil. In modern politics, such an honor is rarely handed to someone who does not reach for it."

Our dictionary defines quality as a "degree of excellence" and it is on these words that we have based the goals of our pharmacy. This not only applies to medicines and other products but to the type of service we try to give to every customer.

Quality is an attitude that we strive for in the appearance of our pharmacy and the appearance of those who work here. Quality is our goal when filling a prescription, talking to a physician or selecting an over-the-counter medicine. If you want quality, we think you will find it in our pharmacy.

"A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?"

Cross country runners to host meet here

West Texas State will host a four-mile cross country race Saturday at the Hunsley Hills Golf Course in Canyon. Wayland Baptist, Lubbock Christian and Texas Tech will provide the opposition.

"I think Texas Tech must be the favored team Saturday, especially after its strong showing in the U. T. Arlington Invitational last week," Buff Coach Bob Kitchens said. "They are really running well. They beat our conference champion, Wichita State, and they finished only five points out of first place in what usually is one of the best meets in the area."

Nonetheless, the Buffs beat the Red Raiders in the only time the two teams have met this year. That was over four-miles at the Wayland Baptist Invitational when the Buffs won the team title. Texas Tech, running without two of its best runners, finished third.

The Buffs are coming off a second place finish in the USTFF sectional meet last Saturday in Portales. Junior Joseph Kemei won the individual title in 24.21 for five miles, and freshman John Chemaringo finished third in 25.33. The best that the rest of the young Buffalo squad could finish was 15th as New Mexico Junior College won the team title.

Kemei's individual win was the first time he had beaten Eastern New Mexico's John Kebiro, a fellow Kenyan. Kebiro was second in 24.30.

"Joe just obliterated Kebiro," describes Kitchens. "Joe let Kebiro keep the lead almost all the way and just outsprinted him to the finish over the last 200 yards.

"Gary Thomas also ran well for us, placing 25th in 28.15. He could have placed higher except that he developed an upset stomach about a mile from the finish. Otherwise, our inexperience is really hurting us."

Next week, the Buffs travel to Lubbock for a four mile race hosted by Texas Tech. Then it's the Missouri Valley Conference championships Nov. 6 hosted by Bradley University in Peoria, Ill.

Buff cagers get started on November opener

The West Texas State University basketball team, which compiled the best won-lost record in the Missouri Valley Conference last year, will open their workouts today.

"I am anxious and have been waiting for it and so are the players," said Head Coach Ron Ekker. "We are anxious to see how the returning lettermen have improved and how good the new players are.

"I feel just as confident at this time this year as I felt last year on opening day.

"We are going to be very basic the first two weeks. We will go over our defense and offense, the basic things are what we are trying to accomplish.

"All things will be basically the same with modifications."

Buffalo basketball fans get their first peek at the 1976-77 edition this week when Coach Ekker's team holds its annual Press Day Thursday and opens its practice schedule Friday.

Ekker welcomes back seven lettermen from last year's 19-7 team including All-MVC pick Maurice Cheeks and seniors Melvin Jones, Eugene Smith and Brad Schreck.

Press Day activities start Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in the Buffalo Fieldhouse. The Buffs open their season Nov. 22 when they meet the Brazilian National team in an exhibition game in the Fieldhouse. The regular season opens Nov. 27 against Panhandle State in the Amarillo Civic Center Coliseum.

WT golfers to compete

West Texas State's young golf team will travel to Vernon to compete in the Chaparral Invitational next Monday and Tuesday (Oct. 18-19) after finishing 10th in the Eastern New Mexico Invitational last week.

New coach Dude Kinkade's team had a 998 total in the 54-hole tournament last week, well back of winner Angelo State. The Buffs' top man was sophomore Tim Avery who shot a 249 total (85-84-80).

"I really wasn't disappointed in their play," Kinkade said. "After all, we did start late and they were all nervous playing in their first tournament.

"We'll work a bunch this week to see if we can't improve some before we go to Vernon."

The Chaparral meet will be a 36-hole affair hosted by Vernon Regional Junior College. Last year, the Buffs finished fourth.

Mostly newcomers on women's team

The WTSU women's basketball practice got under way last Monday, and Coach Allene Stovall is pleased with the turnout so far.

"There has been a good turnout for our first few practices," Coach Stovall said. "So far we are averaging about 20 girls per practice, plus there will be a few girls joining us from the softball and volleyball teams."

Coach Stovall will have a hard task facing her this year, coming off last year's 27-16 record and their state playoff appearance. But one bright spot will be the return of last year's leading scorer, New Deal sophomore Debbie Webb (12.1)

"I'm looking forward to playing again this year," said Miss Webb. "There are a lot of newcomers and it is apparent that this team will be lacking in height. If we are going to do well, a lot of it will depend on our desire to win ball games."

Women make state playoff

The West Texas State women's softball team will compete in the Texas Association of Intercollegiate Athletics For Women (TAIAW) state tournament this weekend in Nacadoches. The Buffs are coming off a 3-2 performance last weekend at the Baylor Tournament.

WT defeated Angelo State 10-9, Texas Tech 12-0, and North Texas State 8-7 Saturday after losing to Texas-Arlington and Baylor by the identical scores of 5-4 on Friday.

WT stands at 10-8 going into Thursday's action in Nacadoches. The tournament will continue through Saturday.

The WTSU women's volleyball team, who was idle over the weekend, will compete in the Sam Houston State Tournament this weekend in Huntsville. Their record stands at 9-9.

Band Day for parents

WTSU's marching band, "The Pride of the Panhandle" will strike up the band in a half-time show Saturday at the North Texas State game.

The show, which always includes fancy footwork, includes "Strike Up The Band," "I Write The Songs," and "I'm A Big Brass Band."

Saturday will also be the third annual Mom and Dad Day. All parents of the West Texas State University band members have been invited to lunch with the band at the Student Union Building on campus and then sit in a special section for the game.

Last year's parents day attracted some 600 parents.

Next week the final session of the three part Basic Orientation is set for Thursday evening, October 21, and will discuss the "Correlation of Care For the Cancer Patient Within the Community."

At the Tuesday night opening session for the Basic Orientation chairman, Mary Alice Hines, presided over a panel of local volunteers as they discussed the county unit with about 25 present.

On the program were Dr. Tom MacOwan, Randall County Unit vice president; Dr. John Brantley, medical committee chairman; Dr. Paige Carruth, area public education chairman; and Elsie Higdon, service committee chairman.

Driver hurt in collision

One person was injured in a collision that caused extensive property damage Monday.

Janet Marie Farmer of Canyon was treated at Palo Duro Hospital after her automobile collided with the vehicle driven by Joyce Ann Warren, also of Canyon.

According to police, Farmer was driving on Fourth Avenue when Warren drove into the intersection at 21st Street.

Warren was charged with failure to yield right of way.

Freeze lunches

Working homemakers can make packed lunches easier with frozen sandwiches. Make enough for a week on the weekend. Wrap individually, but make up a loaf of bread at a time into sandwiches — then stuff them in the bread wrapper for extra protection and ease of storage. Pack them in the lunch frozen and this will help keep them safe from bacterial spoilage. By noon, they will be ready to eat.

Flu epidemic affects 20-30% of population

Nobody wants to catch the flu. If you do catch it, the least it can mean is several days of misery, followed by a period of feeling weak and tiring easily. The most it can mean is a real threat to life, says advice from the American Lung Association of Texas.

The word "influenza" comes from the Italian word for "influence." Medieval people believed this recurring malady was due to the influence of the stars.

Flu is caused by a virus so small it can only be seen under an electron microscope. There are several types of the virus and immunity to one does not necessarily protect from another. Since flu is spread through virus-laden cores of droplets expelled by coughs and sneezes, urban life is highly conducive to its spread. In the pandemics of 1957 and 1968 it took only six months from the initial report that a new strain of influenza had been isolated to the spread of the disease to all major areas in the world.

Characteristically influenza epidemics cause illness in about 20-30% of the population. The impact on a community can be great. Absenteeism in schools and on-the-job increases. Heavy demands are made on medical professionals. Clinic waiting rooms and hospital emergency facilities are crowded. The national dollar cost of a pandemic runs in the billions.

But we no longer have to submit passively to flu as though it did come from the stars' influence. Flu vaccines available since the early 1970's are purer than those previously produced, affording increased protection with fewer side-effects.

Using special funds appropriated by Congress, the Federal government, through official State health agencies, private providers of health care and countless volunteers will immunize a major portion of the U. S. population against current specific flu virus variants.

Though anyone can contract influenza and suffer from it, there are high risk groups for whom flu is especially dangerous. These are the aged and those with chronic illnesses such as chronic lung and cardiovascular diseases.

Beginning with its first FLU ALERT on March 26, 1976 and continuing through the seventh FLU ALERT on August 10, the American Lung Association has kept its staff informed of governmental plans for the flu immunization, and has encouraged staff members to cooperate in every way possible with the immunization effort.

Watch and listen for detailed immunization instructions in your community. For information on lung diseases, write or call your Top of Texas Area American Lung Association of Texas office, 514 East 9th Street in Amarillo, 374-2331.

Rice use down here and abroad

With domestic use of rice and foreign shipments both down and a bumper crop this year, there's plenty of rice on hand, says an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. A record carryover of some 42 million hundredweights by next Aug. 1 appears likely despite increased activity abroad under the P.L. 480 program (Food for Peace). A big reason for the huge carryover is the more than 31 million hundredweights left over from the 1975 crop. Rice prices will continue under pressure. Better quality long grain Texas rice brought $6.78 to $7.25 per hundredweight during the last week of August.

Designer unnoted

The garment designed is much more important to American women than the name of the designer. Recent nationwide surveys revealed that less than one-fourth could cite a designer by name when asked to name their favorite, but they were interested in buying interesting and attractive clothes.

More beef produced in June

Statistics for one summer month are showing up false rumors about the shortage of beef at retail.

Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says figures for the month of June show commercial red meat production was up 11 per cent over last year's records.

"This larger meat production was brought about by a healthy increase in the slaughter of cattle, calves and hogs," notes Uvacek.

Even though these are only June figures, they are representative of the slaughter levels for the first half of this year. For example, U.S. cattle slaughter during the first half of 1976 was up 9 per cent from a year ago and calf slaughter increased 16 per cent. However, the slaughter of hogs, sheep and lambs was down.

"The average live weight increases on cattle and calves accompanied with an increase in the number of cattle slaughtered provided for an overall increase in red meat production," points out Uvacek. "The net result was a 50 per cent larger red meat production in the U.S. for the first half of 1976 compared to a year ago."

While beef and veal production looks somewhat less plentiful in the second half of the calendar year, gains are expected in pork and lamb, notes Uvacek. Total red meat supplies will therefore be even larger during the next few months.

Separates key to men's wear

Today's separates are the key to a man's wardrobe, Mrs. Becky Culp, area clothing specialist, points out.

"Separates that interrelate through color, texture or weight add many different looks to one basic wardrobe," she explained.

Mrs. Culp is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University system.

She noted that this approach to dressing leads to flexibility and economy — so compatible with today's lifestyles.

"Even the classic suit has a more relaxed look this season, often taking on a separates flair. Although three piece suits dominate, the vest is often made up in a contrasting fabric, or made reversible, adding versatility and an air of casualness.

"Also, more and more suits are being seen worn with open shirts or turtlenecks. And most important, all the pieces work together and can also mix and match with other pieces of the wardrobe."

For leisure activities, the layered look is based on separates that compliment each other. Leisure and pullover tops, sweater shirts and sweaters layer over shirts, turtlenecks or other sweaters, she said.

"Popular ethnic and mystical free form prints, tartan plaids, stripes, solids and heathered effects in natural fibers and natural fiber looks easily mix together well for today's high style.

"Whether buying or sewing menswear garments, use separates for a well-rounded, versatile wardrobe. More wardrobe variety can even be achieved by the active mixing and matching of existing wardrobe items," she said.

Buy whole turkey

A whole, ready-to-cook turkey usually provides more meat for the money than a boned, rolled turkey roast, points out Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

At Last, Texas Tech's Legendary Coach Is Brought To Life In All His Glories, His Defeats, His Ironies, And His Vividness. . . In The Book

TENDER TYRANT:

The Legend Of Pete Cawthon

by Etta Lynch

When Pete Cawthon first stepped into the football-coaching spotlight in the mid-twenties, an unforgettable era began, leaving football enthusiasts stunned and awed.

For sportswriters, Cawthon provided a literal "feast." Nationally, their columns teemed with stories about the peppery coach, detailing his fierce competiveness, his unpredictable antics, his resolve to avoid defeat.

For players, Cawthon was dedicated to developing in them a life-lasting sense of responsibility, devotion and character.

For fellow-coaches, he contributed countless hours explaining the same coaching techniques that catapulted him into national fame.

And for all, Cawthon left a legend that has been forever imprinted in the annals of football history—a legend that places him parallel to that of his idol, Knute Rockne.

No discrimination found in study

An eight-member committee has found that West Texas State University does not discriminate in any area.

The committee was formed by WTSU President Lloyd I. Watkins to study the University's compliance to Title IX federal legislation which prohibits discrimination on account of sex in institutions of higher education. Passed on July 21, 1975, WTSU was given three years to comply with the legislation.

Members studied the areas of admissions, student life, financial aid, counseling, hiring practices and athletics, and found each satisfactory.

The subcommittee on athletics, however, requested that special committee "with expertise in this area be established to decide the necessary steps that need to be taken by WTSU to eliminate any possible discrimination."

During the recent Board of Regents meeting, it was stated that the University "needs to improve in the area of athletics with more effort and money. Equal opportunity exists but not equal expenditures."

The board also approved the establishment of the student grievance committee which will convene for a formal hearing within 20 days following the receipt of a written complaint of alleged discrimination in any University area.

Administrative staff grievance committee will hear complaints alleging discrimination brought by the non-academic employees of the University.

"We would really like to take care of any problems by mediation. Faculty members with alleged discrimination complaints should go first to the department head, to the appropriate dean and then to me," said Karen Johnson, University legal counsel.

"Of course, all persons have the right to ask for a hearing, but I look on a hearing as the court of last resort," she said.

Members of the student grievance committee will include two tenured faculty members recommended to the president by the Faculty Council, two students selected by the president of the Student Association and approved by Dr. Watkins and the dean of the college or school of the student's declared major.

Members of the administrative committee will be two representatives from the maintenance personnel, two from the staff/clerical personnel and two from administrative/managerial personnel.

The committee decision is forwarded to the president who has the right to reject or accept the decision, Miss Johnson said. The decision is then forwarded to the board.

The complainant may appeal the decision.

"We'd much rather take care of the problem within the university before going to any outside agencies," Miss Johnson explained.

"A melting pot of Christians"

Because of the freedom allowed the individual, couples from differing Christian backgrounds often find in the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) a place where they can unite their church membership and at the same time continue to believe and to serve God in their own particular ways.

By considering varying points of view, members feel they benefit immeasurably in their own spiritual quests.

I wish to thank each of you who helped serve dinner in the home at Wayside on Thursday. The Lane family thanks each of you for all the food and cards, the many thoughts and prayers, during the loss of their loved one. They are most grateful for the flowers and donations to favorite charities in her memory. They wish to say, "Thank you for the love expressed, your presence in the time of need, your friendship, and especially your prayers during this time of our lives. God bless each of you."

JIM FELLERS IS home from Libya, where he supervised wiring the electrical pumps, etc., of a pipeline on the African desert.

On location, Jim said the temperature was a very dry 125 degrees. That was reported to be a cool summer. Normally, the temperature climbs to 135 degrees during their summers.

Jim also visited Tripoli to renew his visa. There the heat is humid. Atmospheric pressure weighs very heavily on those not climatized to the humid heat.

Jim also spent time in Rome. There he took walking tours of the city, took pictures and learned much about their history and customs.

On his return trip home, Jim spent a night in Zurich, Switzerland. There, he was impressed with the beauty of the country and its peoples' love of bright colors.

Europe may be intriguing, but Jim reported that everyone applauded when the plane touched down on United States soil. Welcome home, Jim!

Rhonda Fellers of the University of Texas (senior student) spent the week-end at home with her parents.

MR. AND MRS. Larry Tackitt and Mark picked up Lonnie Tackitt in Weatherford and spent the week-end in Dallas. Larry judged swine at the State Fair of Texas.

President Ford, John Connally, and four secret service men surprisingly joined Larry in the ring and again on the podium after one of the classes.

President Ford complimented Larry on his judging . . . yes, Larry Tackitt is an excellent judge of swine. I can agree with Mr. President on at least one count.

THE FIRST BAPTIST Church of Happy experienced a wonderful revival this week. Brother Joe Knowles of the College Heights Baptist Church in Plainview was the evangelist. Ron directed the music.

We were privileged to have Marvin Matthews of Plainview to bring special music on Monday evening. Marvin accompanied himself on the piano and sang spiritual type music in his own style.

When he sang, "washed my sins as white as snow," he added, "oh, He came down with a scrub brush. . . ."

Young people enjoyed sloppy joes and a program on Monday evening. Elementary grades had hot dogs on Tuesday.

Adults had a salad supper on Wednesday evening preceding the services.
